

Love Begins With Me

Deep within my heart lays a treasure
A raw material for production of peace
Happiness and a lasting smile
Selfishly I hoard it, and let lose a little conditionally.

However, within my conscience, I stand condemned,
Judged by these words:
What is the reward to love those who love you?
Love is not yet love until you give it out, unconditionally.
My heart shrinks and I repented.

In addition, my mouth opened in vow saying;
As long as I live, I will live in love, I will prove that
Love begins with me,
Love will all that I have to give and take,
To all human colors, tribes, tongues and believes,
Love is the pill to heal the fever of global conflicts.

Name: Philip D. Brown
Country: Nigeria