

LOVE BEGINS WITH ME

Though we are many
Scattered all around the face of the earth
We are one body in love

When we begin to realize this fact
And allow it to sink deeply into our consciousness
It will spark a bright white light of unconditional love
Into our soul and body
That will transform our whole being,
Spiritually, mentally and emotionally

This transformation of love will change our attitude towards one another,
The way we think and reason,
We will stop building weapons of mass destruction
We will not fight and kill ourselves,
We will not let religion separate us, but encourage us to be there for one another,
In sorrow and in pain,

With the transformation of unconditional love in us,
We will not despise one another,
We will not judge others for choosing a way of life,
He may be a gay, or she, a lesbian,
Life is all about choices...
So let's leave judgment in the hands of the great diving,
The master of the universe,
Who made us differently and unique with his divine love

Living the life of unconditional love is the only way to preserve the world
And make it a safe and better place for everything that has breath.
Everyone has a right to live and be loved,
So join me, and lets all shout "Love Begins with Me!!!"
